Speaker's Biography

Dr. Jun Lim received his DDS from Columbia University in 1991. He received his specialist certificate in Perio, and MS degree from Ohio State University in 1994. Since that time he has maintained a private practice limited to periodontics and implantology in Chicago. He taught at University of Illinois (Chicago) from 2007-2017, and at Midwestern University in 2017-2018. He has lectured nationally on periodontology, implantology and pharmacology.

Course Description

The field of periodontics is evolving. Treatment options are expanding, but so many choices invite confusion. Discussion of advantages and disadvantages of various methods will provide you with the necessary information to treat your patients with confidence. With the popularity of dental implants, we are seeing a significant increase in demand of treatment of peri-implantitis. Understanding risk factors and early detection are paramount in successful treatment.

Course Objectives

- Gain the tools to identify pathological states of periodontitis and peri-implantitis
- Understand the underlying issues responsible for these conditions
- Gain an understanding of treatment techniques
- Strategies will be discussed to facilitate treatment to reach those treatment objectives.

Presenting a program of this nature is a group effort and would not be possible without the assistance of many individuals and companies. A complete listing of contributing companies will be available at the program site.
